UK and Ireland Global Cancer Network (UKIGCN)

The Network is the independent, not-for-profit network of individuals and institutions based in United Kingdom and Ireland committed to working in partnership with colleagues in low- and middle-income countries (LMICs).

The mission of the UKIGCN is to bring together the talent, resources and enthusiasm of these individuals and organizations in a strategic and collaborative body in ways that improve the outcome and experience of populations affected by cancer in LMICs.

The principal objectives of the UKIGCN are:

- To serve as a liaison point for a UK and Ireland cadre of Active Members and Supporters committed to working collaboratively with LMIC partners in cancer care.
- To raise awareness by engaging with UK and Ireland professionals, policymakers and the public about the worsening cancer burden in LMIC and how, through working in partnership with LMIC colleagues, together we can have a significant positive impact.
- To act as a catalyst for new UK and Ireland/ LMIC partnerships that contribute to sustainable improvements in cancer prevention, diagnosis, treatment and research that benefit populations in poorer resourced settings.
